

Reading: We will be mastering the letter Vv and its sound.

We are asking comprehension questions when we read stories in class.

Who are the characters? Where is the setting? What happened first, next, and last? What was your favorite part of the story?

What season is it? Is the story real or fantasy?

Math: Things they need to know for the report card: count to 20 (we encourage them to count higher) count objects 1-10, recognize numbers 0-10, write numbers 0-10 (we encourage them to write higher) and identify 3 dimensional shapes, such as cube, cone, sphere, and cylinder.

Homework: Tuesday: the students will write "at" sentences using the words from the word bank/addition on back. (We have been reading a lot of books with "at" words in them.) Please let your child create and write their own sentences by sounding out the words, but help them with harder words that they can not sound out.

Wednesday: letter V in the Alphabet Book

Thursday: write letter Vv/ and addition.

Miscellaneous: The students should be good at reading "at" words by now.

They should even start sounding out words such as scat, flat, drat, stat, brat, splat. We will be starting to master "an" words soon. Please try sounding out words such as: can, fan, can tan, Dan, man, etc.

We will soon be reading many books in class with "an" words in them.

We will then continue with other short a words such as: pam, lap, snap, tab, add, bag, jam, nap, crab, bad, etc.
